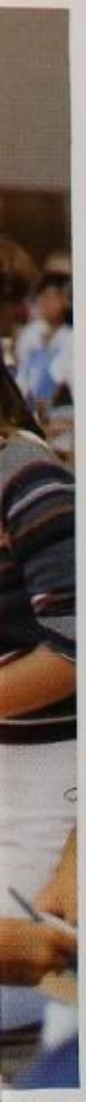
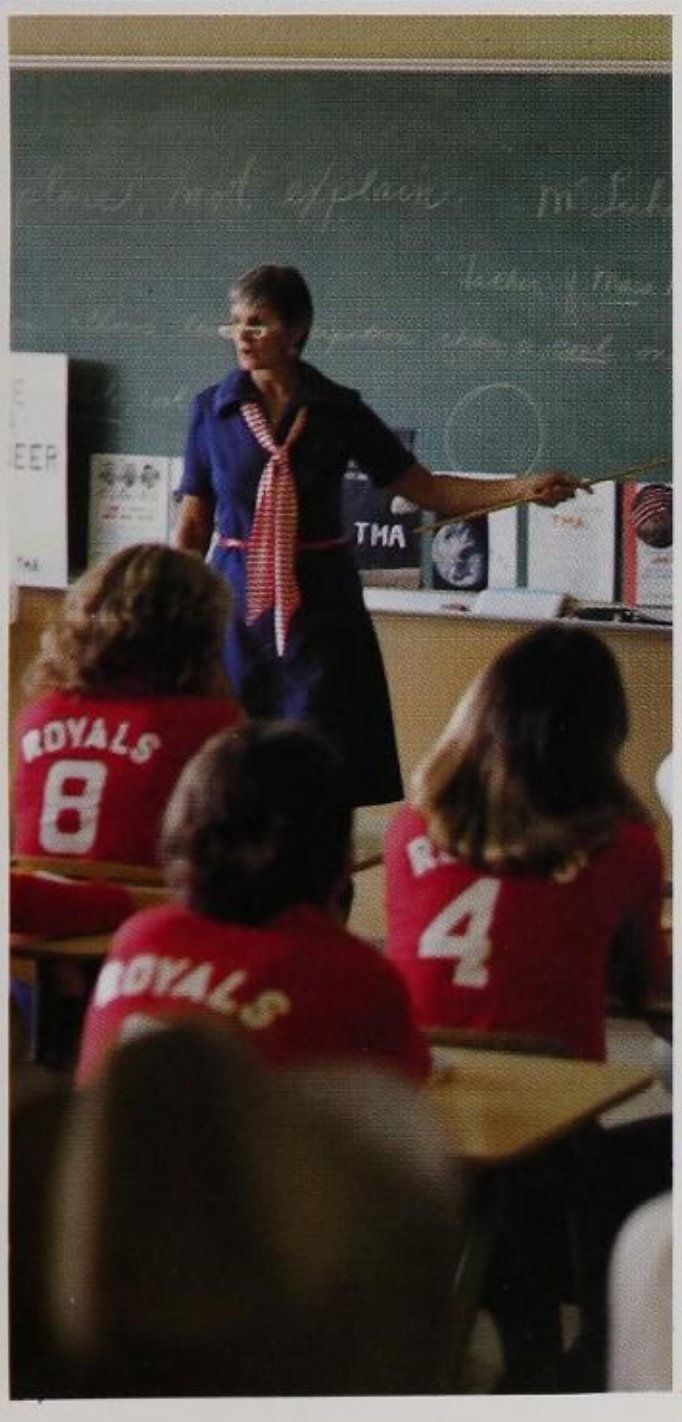
SAN MARCOS HIGH SCHOOL
HOME OF THE ROYALS





The beginning of high school was something we all anticipated with mixed emotions. When we finally got here, it wasn't as different as we expected, but the differences were there. "No student parking" signs, which we never encountered in Junior High, decorate our parking lots; tennis classes, in miscellaneous attire, practice on the courts; and the floors of the P.E. lockers are eternally puddled from sophomore swimming. Each successive year, sophomores experience their first shuffle, trip over unexpected motor cycles in the upper lot, and accustom their eyes to seeing multitudes of team uniforms milling about. Soon, however, the novelties wear off, and we no longer think of ourselves in terms of "beginning high school." Instead, we have moved on to other beginnings.

High school may seem to be only a name we give to the years we endure before graduation, but there is more to it than that. High school holds different beginnings for every person, and these may vary from year to year depending on the individual's changing view. Beginnings are encountered by everyone in high school; each person's beginnings different from another's.

High school is the beginning of indpendence. It is where we start building self-confidence and finding out who we really are. People begin to discover themselves through their interests, whether it be in sports, dramatics, academics, art, or something else. This is where students begin to show concern for their futures, find out which career they would like to pursue, and start to plan ahead for this career. Up until high school, students tend to consider school as something they have to do. However, in the three years before graduation, the life ahead of us takes on importance. With the help of teachers, parents, and counselors, we are beginning to shape our futures.

The decade of the sixties was a time of radical change. There were political uprisings, sexual revolutions, and technological advances. Americans set their goals and priorities, and then stubbornly, even violently, strove to attain them. The seventies, however, found the majority of the people favoring a more conservative attitude. These people found it easiest to exist in the shadow of the accomplishments of the sixties. Now, our generation is pulling America out of this state of awe. We are again moving ahead to conquer the impossible. All around us things are starting to change and grow with increasing speed. No more does society bemoan the end of the "good old days." The generation of the eighties is looking ahead for beginnings, not back at what was, and these beginnings never die. They only give birth to new beginnings.

Happy New Year

A New Beginning

Three years of high school just passed. Now, standing at the final high school gathering awaiting your diploma, you think back upon your three years. At this time the years you spent in high school seem as though they passed quickly; when in the middle of high school, the years hung on. You have now come to the end of required education. Graduation has finally arrived. Wasn't it you who couldn't wait? Maybe you've now discovered that you are not at an end; you are at a beginning. A beginning of responsibility, independence, and a certain kind of freedom, the freedom of self-decision. The world is yours now, so grab it by the tail if you can. Isn't this the moment you waited so long for? The decisions are all yours now. You know what your plans from here are, right? Suddenly you pause to think — maybe you're not as ready as you thought you were. Of course you're ready, you're graduating, aren't you? But you probably feel unsure about yourself. You thought you'd love a life without parents; no restrictions, just a life of your own. Now you realize how much your parents mean to you. You know how proud they are of you, and that they'll always be there to help you when you need it. But at this time maybe you feel that you shouldn't ask. This is your life now. Time to help yourself. This is graduation, your beginning.

It's the first game of the season, and everyone gathers around the bleachers to watch our athletes play. This will be the big start of the season. We watch the game eagerly, waiting for the first turn-out. Then we judge our team on the score and on how well they played. But is this first game the important beginning? Is this really where the season begins? As far as the athletes are concerned, the beginning started long before the first game.

Where it all really starts is on those first days of try-outs and the many days of practice. On these days, each individual strives to become a part of the team. This person pushes his athletic ability to its highest extreme. He works for victory and learns from defeat. Day after day each chosen athlete perfects every move, practices every play, and constantly plans and works with the team. The long hours of practice, drills, exercising, and planning are the struggles that go unseen. These days before any games are played go unrecognized, but the sweat, aches, emotion, and ambition are where it begins for the athlete.

An Era Ends

An era and a season ended on November 16th. It was the "big game" with Santa Barbara. When the final gun sounded, it not only signaled the end of the game and the regular season, but it also symbolized the end of something bigger. Looming larger was the fact that, after twenty years of coaching for Head Coach Sut Puailoa, the gun had signaled the end of his last league game. As a sign of their feeling for Puailoa, the students dedicated the half-time show in his honor. The flower filled farewell included a standing ovation from the thousands of Royals' fans in the stadium.

This year's team played its best game when they kept the ball on the ground. The total number of yards gained rushing was 2327 as opposed to 622 gained passing. They broke two records, one for the most offensive yardage gained in a season, and the second for the most rushing yards gained in a season. The players who were most instrumental in setting these records were running backs Mike Dzierski, Alan Jones, and Sheldon MacKenzie. Dzierski and MacKenzie each rushed over 100 yards three times, and Jones rushed over 100 yards twice, despite the fact that he was out for half of the season with an injury.

Varsity Football ended the season with an overall record of 7-3. Unfortunately, the three losses were all in league competition. Our record won us a place in CI.F. playoffs as the wild card choice of the coastal conference. The team went with high expectations and well supported by the student body.

Sophs Top Dons And D.P.

"The Sophomores played really hard this year, they deserved to win more than they did." Quoted from one student, this described the Sophomore football team. With coaches Hal Kilminster and Harvey Campbell and assistance by John Knapp and Steve Puailoa, the team benefited from excellent leadership. However the team had a season of dramatic highs and disappointing lows. They were hit by many problems right from the start.

Injuries to Jeff Barens and Bard Salcido placed the burden of signal calling on Kevin Todd, in the later part of the season. With outstanding help from players like Mark Mester, the Royals had decisive wins against Oxnard, Dos Pueblos and Santa Barbara. In these games they played well and had fantastic victories. Overall, the Sophomore football team went through an enthusiastic year.

Coaching Efforts Pay Off

The girls' varsity volleyball team played a tough season. Under the guidance of Coach Tom Shoji, the team ran up an overall record of 13-3, and took the runner-up spot in the Channel League.

In the C.I.F. playoffs, the girls were on the road for both matches. In the first they triumphed over Louisville but they were unable to overcome a strong Santa Monica team in the second, and were out of the playoffs.

The junior varsity squad had some true learning experiences. In addition to working on the techniques of the game, they learned how to recruit. Faced with the problem of no coach, they went out and found one in alum, Elise McConnell. Under her hand, they went on to finish in a tie for first in the league.

Girls Find Tennis Tough

The girls' teams finished with an overall record of 6-11 and a Channel League mark of 3-7. As in the past, the league competition in the form of D.P. and Santa Barbara proved to be hard to top.

The twenty-one girls who made up the team did make a good effort. Among the leaders were Karen Brennand, Laurie Carroll, Robin Ziegler, and Leslie Dinaberg. All went to the Channel League championships with Laurie and Robin in the singles competition, and Leslie and Karen teaming in the doubles matches. At the conclusion of the season, Laurie Carroll was named to the league all-star team.

The league was very tough, and as one student commented, "If the team had looked at tennis more as a sport than as a game, they might have made it to the top."

Karen Uphoff, the team's captain, ran the quickest time. The fastest sophomore was Kathy Clarke, who began the season in junior varsity and then moved up to varsity. Sharon Pritchard was noted as the most improved runner on the girls' cross country team.

Both the girls' and the boys' cross country teams showed good spirit, and there was a lot of support from the San Marcos staff. The final result of the season was a fourth place in the league.

Five seniors, returning from last year, provided the heart of this year's team. The varsity team had an excellent year, only losing once in a close game with Dos Pueblos. They went on to C.I.F. and did very well.

Varsity Water Polo's best all around player was Greg Outcalt, and their best defensive player was goalie Peter Malek who averaged twelve saves a game.

The junior varsity team was well-balanced, had good physical ability, and showed excellent potential. This year's team also included two sophomore girls, Ellen McCurdy and Linda Scott.

Although the varsity team felt well supported, members of the junior varsity expressed a desire for more support from both the administration and the student body.

Royals "Run" For 2nd Title

"They are the best running team San Marcos has ever had," stated Coach Maury Halleck. The '80 Team played ball the best way it could, combining remarkable quickness with great teamwork to complete a regular season of 23-0. A strong starting line led the Royals to many victories, but the great depth of the team reserves proved to be an asset as several players came off the bench to help win games. In pre-league play, the Royals won the CAPHER and Cabrillo Classic Tournaments. League games brought two major triumphs over Dos Pueblos. One marked Coach Halleck's 300th game win and the second clinched the Channel League Title.

As recognition was gained, San Marcos seemed to dominate the Channel League all around. Jon Korfas was voted Most Valuable Player, while Anthony Hunter and Mike Fitzgerald were first team selections. Jeff Again was a second team choice, and Gerry Karczewski received honorable memtions. Coach Halleck was also honored, for the second consecutive year, as Channel League "Coach of the Year."

In CIF action, San Marcos headed in as one of the top teams. Theri fast running break proved to be too much for opponent New Bury Park as they fell 888-70. Second round action brought stiff competition from Pasadena. Their quickness, skill and great height seemed to be more than the "Might" Royals expected as post-season play came to an end.

The success outweighed the mishaps by a long shot — school records were broken and individual triumphs were achieved. The San Marcos Royal Basketball team may have finished their season with a loss, but as Coach Halleck reflected, "I look at it as ending the season with 24 wins!"

4. Co-captain Jack Mochnick jumps toward the hoop. 5. Jon Korfas drives in from the sideline. 6. Jeff Azain and Willie Smith listen as Coach Halleck plots Royals strategy.

Time Passes, J.V.s Improve

Hours of hard work and team dedication developed this year's JV Basketball team. Improving as the season progressed, they racked up an overall 11-9 season, with many of the games being decided in the final minutes. Well deserved victories over Ventura, Santa Barbara, and Buena earned the Royals the Santa Barbara JV Tournament Title, for the first time in over seven years. John Coste was named Most Valuable Player, and Chris Abreu was named to the All-Tournament Team.

To a squad that really tried, praise was received from Coach Ward as he commented, "I'm really proud of their efforts." Outstanding performances were also noted when the team chose Eric Rehwoldt, Most Valuable Player; Eric Diehl, Most Inspirational Player; and Gyasi Subira, Most Improved Player.

High Hopes — For Future

Returning after one year absence, Coach Willeman led a young and inexperienced team to a 3-16 record. Despite the team's lack of success as a whole, several individuals were able to claim wrestling titles. Victor Neumann placed first in Channel League and first in a San Marcos tournament. James Escamilla came in second in Channel League with Steve Carlson taking a third. All three of these seniors advanced to post-season CIF competion.

The JV team found itself in the same boat as the Varsity — they were often competing against wrestlers with a year or two more experience. Even with this disadvantage, the team placed fourth in the league and came in eighth out of 18 teams at a Ventura Tournament. Outstanding team members included Robert Adams and Ed Haueter who were among the San Marcos Wrestling top 10.

Hard Work Pays Off

The San Marcos Girls Basketball team enjoyed a very meaningful season again this year. They finished with a 19-5 overall record and second place finish in the tough Channel League. For the second year in a row, San Marcos won the Bird Cage Tournament this time with decisive victories over St. Bonaventure, Inglewood, and Dos Pueblos. The Royals opened the CIF playoffs with a close and exciting overtime victory defeating Channel Islands 64-62. Unfortunately, they fell in round two to Righetti High School 60-45.

First team, all league honors were, for the second time, bestowed on Cindy Battistone. Also honored were co-captain Janet Capovilla (2nd team), co-captain Suzanne Willie (honorable mention), and most improved player Karen Michaels (honorable mention).

Upon graduating, the varsity team's seven seniors opened up a fine challenge for JV members to fill the vacancies. The JV's finished the season with a 1-8 season record and should do very well on Varsity next year.

New Season New Idea

Coed swimming was new at San Marcos this year. The Varsity team looked forward to CIF and intended to go far. Coach Allen Lorentzen stated that he was very pleased with the over all times of the team. Returning CIF finalists and lettermen, Liz Wollschlaeger, Leanne Kuhn, Kristi Smith, Adrian Tartler, Greg Outcolt, Greg Franco, and Brian Chase created a foundation on which the team could build.

Young Team Swims Ahead

The swimming teams were the only ones whose practices were not hampered by the rains, and the coaches were constantly amazed by the steady, marked improvement. In spite of the fact that 80% of this year's JV team had never been to a meet, coaches Allen Lorentzen and Sydney DeFay looked for a year with no problems and many successes.

Team Looks Toward Title

Heavy rains during late February put a damper on the preseason training and practice games for the 1980 Royals' baseball squad. After splitting a double header with Lompoc, the next four games were rained out.

Mid-March found the team plunging into the Channel League race with hopes of repeating as league leaders like they did last year. Coach Mueller felt that the two toughest opponents would be Buena and Hueneme.

At the outset, the team's strength rested on the talents of all-league shortstop David Graham, pitcher John Martony, and the fielding of men like Alan Jones.

The JV baseball team was in excellent physical condition at the beginning of the season. Even though the rain washed out many practices and a few of the first games, the team kept their Royal spirit.

When asked what he thought of his team, Coach Williams stated, "All of them are stars." This year's group was especially strong thanks to a large percentage of returning players. The JVs also gained strength from the services of pitcher Bill Bishop and infielder Mark Taylor. Jeff Azain, Jerry Karczewski, and Pete Stathopulos gave the team the benefit of their hot batting.

Here To Stay

Softball entered its fourth year at San Marcos when the 1980 season opened. This year brought a new coach who was a long-time figure on campus — Bard Salcido. Mr. Salcido succeeded Morey Claydon who took over as head football coach.

Mr. Salcido's coaching task was eased by the fact that he had a nucleus of seniors and returning players around which to develop this year's team.

Like other spring sports, softball was hampered by the rains. The lack of adequate practice time showed in the early season results. Going into the league competition, the girls were even in the win-loss columns. This situation fired them up to show what they could do when it came time to "Play Ball!" in the Channel League season.

The Junior Varsity team was coached by Terri Jo Keller who replaced Mr. Salcido. This year's JV squad was dominated by sophomores and juniors. With the experience gained during this season they will be expected to step in and fill the spots left by graduating seniors now on the varsity.

Champions All The Way

For the 1980 Royal's golf team, the late winter rains delayed the start of the season, but did not dampen the team's spirit. This year's squad was led by sophomore Sam Randolph who, with junior Scott Lorenz, formed the heart of the team dominated by juniors and sophomores. Stoney reported that this year marked the first time a woman, Hilary Rack, started as a varsity player for San Marcos. He also singled out the play of freshman Rick Dizinno as being noteworthy.

The team set its sight on two tough goals — another Channel League crown, and another chance at the CIF-Southern Section title. Over the last five years San Marcos has come in either first or second in CIF competition.

Top flight teams and outstanding individuals attested to the coaching skill of Mr. John Stoney, who was rewarded with the "Coach of the Year" title by the California Coaches Association.

Slow Start, Good Finish

Because of much rain this season the boys' tennis team got off to a late start. With the loss of five varsity members, it looked like this year would be a time of rebuilding for the team. Most of the responsibility was placed on the few experienced players, Greg Falzon, Paul Kuhn, Chris Merrill, and David Orr. Competition within the league promised to be tough as usual. Under the coaching of Mr. Lodas, the team felt that they had a good chance for CIF.

The JV team was young and inexperience. They often found themselves competing against more seasoned players with a year or more behind them. However, by the end of the year they were able to confidently take on their opponents.

Beresford In Control

The 1980 varsity volleyball team started the season with a 3-1 win over Loyola. They were picked as co-favorites with Dos Pueblos to take the Channel League title. This year Mike Beresford took over as coach, and, with the skills of Scott McMahon, Mike Fitzgerald, Eric Dahlke, Paul Ortiz, Rob Vail, and Peter Park — a first year player whose setting skill was one of the pleasant suprises — they had the potential to go all the way in CIF.

It was a learning season for the JV team. Though they started off slowly, each match was a learning experience. By the end of the season they could handle almost any opponent. With the experience they have gained, several of the players will become valuable to the next year's varsity team.

Soccer Spirit Strong

Looking back on the soccer season the players on the team were a little disappointed with the win/loss record, but were happy with the team as a whole. The friendships attained and the experience gained made the season itself rewarding. The team showed great enthusiasm, and Steve Berkus was noted for his leadership and team support. Together, Brian Alexander (leading scorer), Steve Berkus (Most Valuable Player), and Steve Row (Most Improved Player) added great strength to the team. Coach Cam Camarena returned this year after his short absence, and was greatly helped by his assistant coach Mary Donald.

Seniors — Key

With a convincing win over Arroyo Grande early in the season, the track team seemed to be on the way. The JV teams sported numerous sophomores, and even the varsity squads attracted new talent.

Though some of the teams lacked depth in the distance events, most of them were well balanced. One of the strongest aspects for all the teams was in the sprints, thanks to runners like Barrett Gee, Sabrina Holford, Deana Ross, and Jeff Deitz, all seniors. Tough challenges would come from the cross town schools, but the Royals believed that they would become the Channel League champions.

Spirit within the track group was especially strong this year. One member, Laurie Carroll, who was out with an injury summed it up with "It really hurts not to be running."

Friendship was something that went hand-in-hand with sports. What good was winning that big race if there wasn't anyone to share it with? Many participants in this year's track program commented about the amount of spirit that members shared with each other. The focus was on improving and helping to improve. Training for something every day wasn't easy, and when it was as rigorous as a sport, it was much harder. Through that friends became stronger than they were before, and winning that big meet was much nicer when there was someone there to share it with you.

Powder Puff '79

Powder Puff football returned to the campus after a one-year lapse. The fact that there was no game last year seemed to stimulate the turnout of prospective players for both teams. After a one week "crash course" in conditioning and fundamental football, the moment of truth for both groups came on Friday, December 14th.

In the tradition of San Marcos PP games, the first half was a stand-off with two strong defenses dominating the action. At half-time it was a scoreless tie largely due to the fine work of junior Amy Anderson.

Early in the third quarter, Deana Ross broke loose and sprinted downfield 95 yards to put the seniors out in front. Later in the fourth quarter, the seniors scored again on a run up the middle by Jody Tafelski. The senior lead was increased to 14 points when Sabrina Holford scored a safety.

Then, with a little over two minutes left, junior Leanne Kuhn received the kickoff and legged it all the way for a quick six points. At the final gun the score was 14-6 in favor of the seniors.

San Marcos provides students with many activities which are fun to watch and participate in. These same activities develop interests while they entertain. Interests often lead to hobbies or sometimes even a career. The Royal Blue Review and an assortment of plays develop the entertainer in many of us. A variety of dances, each with its own theme, provide students with numerous opportunities to become involved in social planning. The school's nominating convention is yet another example of the activities to which a student may be introduced. It is important for students to take an interest in these outside activities because they cover a section of our education which is often inadequately explored in the regular curriculum.

School Daze

Preparation for school began long before September, but the activity was not evident until September 11, when hundreds of eager sophomores descended upon the campus for orientation. The program proceeded in the traditional manner, with introductions and speeches by several faculty members. Then the student presentation of life at San Marcos opened with a flourish as the Senior class president Adrian Tartler, dressed in a tutu, led the class officers in a unique imitation of a rock band. Finally, orientation concluded with tours of the campus and opportunities to join various clubs.

On Wednesday, the seniors led the way through the Royal Shuffle, with the class of '82 bringing up the rear. After the frustrating experience of registration, followed by two days of school, the students were more than ready for Friday. By the end of the first full week, most of the students were adjusted to school again, and awaited the first home football game, and the Howdy Dance.

SM Spirit

This year's rallies were created with imagination and differed from rallies in the past. The rally committee put an extraordinary effort into bringing students to the rallies.

They tried to make each rally fun, or at least amusing to watch.

One of the better rallies created this year was the one for the Oxnard football game. This rally was called an "Un-Rally" and was quite a success.

The aim of the rally was to do things backwards, and that included everything from the little things, such as saluting the flag at the end, all the way up to the bigger things like having the spirit leaders and the football players exchange roles. The committee also tried to increase audience participation by having class competitions. These included such things as yelling contests, banana eating contests, lap sits, tug-of-wars, and Volkswagen pushes. All in all, the rallies were a success, and managed to break through last year's apathetic outlook.

Homecoming '79 — Success!

Randi Alvari

Homecoming '79, like its predecessors was an event filled with excitement. The princesses arrived in open cars and were escorted to their seats by members of the Key Club. At half-time, each of the five was introduced. Then, accompanied by their fathers, the girls walked under an arch of sabers toward the crowning moment. There was a tense pause, and then the 1979 queen was announced. Karen Parker, the '78 Homecoming Queen, yielded her crown and title to Heidi Kilminster. Tears mingled with smiles as the new queen donned her crown and robe, and received the traditional bouquet of roses. Each of the princesses were also given roses, and then the girls were driven around the track for the last time.

The excitement of the evening, which was enhanced by a victory over Ventura, carried over to the following night when the dance was held. Although this year's dance was semi-formal and held in the Student Center, it had been sold out a week before. With a live band, Over Easy, and a room full of happy people, the dance proved to be worth its popularity.

Dances Take New Approach

Dances at San Marcos took a new twist this year. In the dance sponsored by the Drama Club ("A Hollywood Premiere") the standard layout of the dance floor was altered to create an atmosphere similar to that of a night club. Tables and chairs were positioned on the stage overlooking the dance floor. Many students dressed in costume, and some won prizes for their attire. Another innovation was the conversion of the traditional CSF Mardi Gras to a couples only, Sadie Hawkins dance where roles were reversed and girls invited boys. Other favorites included the Harvest Moon Ball, the Sweetheart Swing, the Convention Ball, the Last Chance Dance, and the ever popular after Game Dances.

Mystery Comes to San Marcos

Barbara Bullard, senior of '79, stepped in at literally the last moment to fill the gap left when Mimi Atkinson moved to Colorado. Her excellent performance, despite the short notice, was characteristic of the whole play. "Any Number Can Die" was the Performing Arts Department's first major production of the year. It was a spoof on the detective shows of the late 20's and early 30's. Although it had a number of comical overtones, the play was filled with suspense, and it kept the audience on the edge of its seat either by the eerie sets and special effects, or by the intriguing plot. The impressive sets were designed by director Marjorie Luke, and the sound effects and lighting were executed flawlessly by the stage crew.

The action of the play was set in the living room of Raven's Head, an old mansion on a deserted island off the coast of North Carolina. The plot began with the usual grouping of relatives, employees, and reporters convened to hear the reading of the will of eccentric Cedric Russell. The will stated that a large part of the inheritance was left to sweet, innocent Sally Van Ville. The will also provided a list of the other greedy relatives in the order which they would inherit should the previous be deceased. This, of course, set the scene for a series of money-motivated murders. Then, just to keep the audience on its toes, a riddle was provided so that the most astute of the relatives could get the rest of the inheritance. As the play progressed, many of the people were looking for the money, and some of them were getting killed. The two detectives, Hannibal Hix and Agatha Winters, finally unraveled the case leaving the reporter, Jack Regent, and Sally to find the money and romance.

"Any Number Can Die" was well reviewed. The play itself was described as "a top-caliber thriller" (Newspress), and individual actors were complemented with such words as "impressive" (William Forney), "grade-A performance" (Barbara Bullard), and "a comedic touch nothing less than perfect" (Kim Anderson and David Stanke). All in all, the play was an excellent whodunit right down the line.

French Night Scrapbook

On a Saturday night in October, our cafeteria was transformed into "Le Cafe Saint Marks." The Occasion was the performing arts annual ethnic night. This year's audiences were entertained right and left by can-can girls, French mimes, and singing peasants. Performances started even before the meal. Mime troupe did a repertoire of their street mimes; then, as people entered they were welcomed by the music of the orchestra. Throughout the evening, the madrigals sang, Larry Mason sang, and members of the orchestra played flute solos. The highlight of the evening came when Orchesis performed an authentic French can-can. Altogether it was an enjoyable evening for all.

Providing that long hours of tedious hard rehearsal really do pay off, the Drama club put on a fantastic show this year. Titled "Scrapbook," the show was a musical review through the decades. It boasted songs from such shows as "Annie," "Grease," "Hair," and many others. Highlights of the show were Cady Huffman, singing and dancing in the song "The Music and the Mirror," and the whole cast's rousing rendition of "Let the Sun Shine." Squeezing a whole show into three weeks of rehearsal wasn't easy, but as one reviewer put it, "If this is any indication of what the San Marcos' drama department has to offer, we're in for a great year."

'Twas The Night . . .

This year's Noel in White did not begin at 9:00 on a Saturday night as many people might think. On the contrary, it began many months before with extensive planning and organizing. First on the list was a theme. Suggestions ranged from DEVO Christmas to Christmas at Grandma's. In the end they decided upon the traditional Christmas song, "'Twas the night before Christmas" to use as a basis for starting plans. Then came the many days of finding a place to hold hold the dance, finding out if a person had the talent to make paper snowflakes, or if they were better in the kitchen baking cookies. Finally it wound down to the date of Saturday, December 15th. At 2:30 a large group of teenagers appeared at the student center of City College, decked with a pile of Christmas ornaments and bulbs, ready to set up for the dance. Then the time came, and at 9:00 the doors opened. A multitude of happy couples filtered into the room, ready to enjoy themselves and dance to the music of the band "Second Wind." The spirit of the evening peaked as they announced that the 1979 Snow King and Queen were Mark Battistone and Jenny Howard.

Spring Show Shines

Little Mary Sunshine was an affectionate spoof on the old time operettas of yesteryear in which handsome military men fall in love with wide-eyed young ladies from a finishing school. In the words of advisor Mrs. Luke, "This year's cast became caught up in the tongue-in-the-cheek attitude of their show." The basic goal of cast and crew alike was to capture the nostalgic spirit of the show they were performing in. This was accomplished by painting "San Marcos Operetta Company" on the curtain of the theatre, and in the way$the show was staged and sung.

Convention! Arabs To Rock

Punk rockers, Arabs, big-time gangsters, and a beach party invading San Marcos? That's exactly what it looked like outside the auditorium on the morning of March 11, as excited students waited for Convention 1980 to get underway. Then at 8:00 A.M. the doors were opened and 400 people surged in, dressed in the outrageous costumes of the day and filled with enthusiasm.

Preparation for the event began long before the actual convention. Classes had to vote for delegates, who in turn were required to spend lunch periods listening to speeches from potential candidates. On the day before the convention, students took on the job of decorating the auditorium. Palm trees, melted records, political posters, and crepe paper streamers were just a few of the oddities to be seen.

All through the day chaos could be felt in the air. Demonstrations and speeches were given among the ever present cheers and cat-calls. and voting became tiresome as the afternoon wore on and delegates began leaving.

This year's convention boasted a special guest, a pseudo-Russian Communist — who stirred peoples emotions until he was exposed as being an actor. The convention ended a record one and a half hours ahead of schedule, at 5:30 P.M., with the rap of the gavel and a round of cheers.

As the school year begins, a countless number of faces roam the campus halls. Many of the faces search for accomplishment, many seek popularity, and many desire the feeling of being involved. Whatever the reason may be, clubs and organizations can open a door to those who wish to participate.

At first the club may start the year rather slowly and feelings are somewhat timid, but as the weeks progress, the members become a close unit. Each member performs his or her specific function within the group, and before long, activities begin to happen. There are rallies, sports events, plays, and concerts. Clubs and organizations give students the opportunity to show their talents and to arrange various school events.

Organization Produces Results

The Associated Student Body Cabinet consisted of twelve students who put in many hours of personal time to develop a student government system which ran smoothly. The ASB cabinet members were involved in everything from the sports rallies to the school desegregation program.

Some concrete examples of the high goals they set for themselves were the Royal Decree, the sophomore orientation day, the Government Advisory Broadcast, and the student suggestion boxes located about the campus. The Cabinet also organized a very successful Homecoming halftime show. Led by president Mark Battistone, the cabinet made the 1979 school year more enjoyable for all the students.

Slow Start — Efficient End

Despite problems at the beginning of the year, the Justices had a successful term. After the Chief Justice re-election, they started organizing themselves into an efficient cabinet. Andrew Hall, the new Chief Justice, attended all cabinet meetings and then reported pertinent information to the other justices. Next, following San Marcos Parliamentary procedure, they voted on passing or declining each suggestion that the cabinet or club members had presented. All in all, their shortened term turned out to be very productive.

Slow Start

Because there was nothing for them to do, the Awards Committee lay dormant until the second semester when they began preparation for the awards presentation held at the end of the year. At that time, they noted outstanding students' accomplishments. Although this was their main effort during the year, they also presented each of the five homecoming queen nominees with a necklace.

News Update

The CRC, or Community Relations Committee, worked all year to try to provide the community with information about school events such as plays. Their main means of communication was through the two marquees, which they kept up to date on school activities. They also added a personal touch on different occasions by displaying messages like "Have a nice day." At the beginning of the year, the CRC planned a student government letter magazine. This magazine would have included summaries of past news and would have updated news briefs on various committees and organizations at San Marcos. This idea was never carried through, but the CRC hopes to carry it out next year.

And the Winner Is . . .

This year the Election Committee was responsible for handling all the elections, such as the ASB elections and the Homecoming election. Their responsibilities included running the booths, gathering ballots from classrooms, and counting votes. They also spent a great deal of time planning and working out the Nominating Convention held in the spring.

Club Heads Form Council

The leaders of on-campus organizations formed the membership of IOCC. Money Is Their Game

This year's Finance Committee was led by senior Kathy Kalp. It was kept busy not only during the year, but even during the summer. Throughout the year it met to review and approve the ASB budget for the House and also to sell ASB cards during nutrition, lunch, and the shuffle. This benefited all San Marcos students. The committee also helped the teams. For instance, it helped the tennis team by approving the allocation of $1000 for the purchase of a mechanical trainer. In addition to this they assisted the Jazz Band in raising money for a trip to Monterey.

Rallies Boost Royals

Under the creative leadership of Sean McMahon, the Rally Committee strove to improve the quality of this year's rallies and to create a broader audience appeal. Remember those expertly done take-offs on popular game shows? What about those intriguing games, like passing an Alka-Seltzer tablet with your teeth or pushing a VW around the tack? These and a wide variety of other events gave San Marcos students bursts of spirit and lunacy before nutrition. It was traditional to start a Friday morning rally with the Drum Corps and Spiritleaders parading about the campus as students gathered in the Greek Theatre. Once there, the student body participated in rallies with themes ranging from the Un-Rally, where everything was reversed, to a banana eating contest between class representatives.

Programs Add Zip

Under the supervision of Mr. Purcell, the program Committee helped to organize the Principal's assemblies. Committee coordinator Ursula Kroemer stated that, although the committee lacked active members, they managed to accomplish their duties. To the student's delight, the group succeeded in convincing adventurer and explorer John Goddard to return this year with another exciting film on exploring the Nile River. They were also able to engage the Army Band whose snappy performance helped to start off the school year.

"The Key Club is mainly a public service organization," stated president Paul Kuhn, and that the Key Club was. They went to Kiwanis Club meetings and helped with their international drug prevention program. The club also sent two members to the 34th annual Key Club International Convention in Anaheim.

With aid from advisor Mr. Rogers and Mr. Stoney, the club had a very busy year. At school, members participated in Club Day, escorted the Homecoming princesses, sponsored the Harvest Moon Ball, and painted the Greak Theatre benches.

Spirit In Action

Adding their own special style to this year's rallies and athletic events, the spirit leaders were no doubt one of the more enthusiastic groups on the San Marcos campus. To prepare for their various duties at games and for rallies, the members attended a week-long cheerleader camp at UCSB last summer.

Led by Captain Shawn Maloney, the girls raised funds for camp by holding bake sales and selling decorated eggs. For the Homecoming Carnival, they turned out their "super Rice Krispy treats."

Girls Pin Down Team

This year the Grapplettes had to take an intensive one week workshop during their lunch period so that they could be taught the rules of wrestling. Following this came a personal interview to judge their enthusiasm. After becoming a Grapplette they had to attend the wrestling matches and keep score for the team. At times the Grapplettes had other kinds of fun. For example, they participated in the annual club day selling submarine sandwiches. The income from this went to the wrestling team so that they could attend a tournament.

Off To A Good Start

This year the Pep Club was just as important as it has ever been on the campus. Club members had reserved seating at the rallies and during football games so that they could lend their expert cheering talents to the games. But this was not all; members also had to work. They sold sandwiches at the Homecoming carnival, passed out sheets of paper with cheers written on them during water polo games, and introduced the idea of a mascot to the ASB. At club meetings, members could get information on being a cheerleader, and they also elected officers. To quote president Lia Zanesco, "Pep Club is a large club and it's hard to get everyone to participate, but we always have lots of fun."

Ushering In The March Of Intellect

MESA, which stands for math, engineering, science, and achievement, received financial aid from the Hewlett, Sloan, and Santa Barbara Foundations. The goal was to encourage minority students to take courses that dealt with these subjects. Membership in the club included such benefits as extra tutoring, field trips, and guest speakers.

With a record breaking number of members this year, the Usherettes were more active than ever. Aside from the usual ushering at games, performances, and shuffles, they turned out spirit ribbons. These were sold around school and at the games, and they helped to spark the spirit of all Royals. The Usherettes also sponsored their traditional carnation sale at Valentine's Day.

Breaking tradition, they started the new decade with a new look. Blue pants, red velour jackets, and white T-shirts bearing the light blue initials of San Marcos High helped to keep enthusiasm within the club at a high level all year long.

CSF opened their year with a nickle toss at the Homecoming Carnival. The game, in which students attempted to toss coins into soda cans with the tops cut off, turned out to be more an entertaining attraction than a fund raiser. Fortunately, this didn't matter as the club was already financially secure. As usual, the tutoring program was filled with requests, and the annual trip to Disneyland in February was appreciated by all CSF members and their guests. Finally, in an effort to start the '80s on a progressive note, they introduced a new approach with the Sadie Hawkins dance in March.

The Mime Troupe prospered this year with a larger membership and more spirit than in the past. Performing as street mimes at French night, improvising at Victoria Court and appearing in the Christmas parade were only a few of the activities that they did this year. Beginning in December the members could be seen doing various warm-ups and style exercises for an act that they planned to do for Royal Blue Review.

The Curtain Falls

Mass membership boosted the Drama Club this year. Led by president Jed Hammond, the club was involved in activities ranging from waiting on tables at French night to selling an infamous "Bathtub Brew" at the Fall play. A club first was the student produced musical review, "Scrapbook," members also worked on the recreation department's Haunted Hotel during Halloween.

Getting Up . . . Setting up . . .

"It took a lot of hard work and dedication to be in the orchestra this year." This was a typical comment which could be heard from an orchestra member. It was true of course, getting up to go to rehearsals before most people even considered the idea of getting out of bed, then playing Christmas songs months before December, made it really hard to become involved with playing an instrument, but the orchestra did it! Showing-off their musical talents at French night and the Christmas concert made it all worth while.

In the words of advisor Mrs. Luke, "The stage crew accepted the challenge of a heavy shedule, low budget, and no janitor with minimal discontent. We are elevating slave labor to an art." This year the stage crew worked on every function that had to do with the auditorium. They were in charge of everything from light cues to fixing sets, and they performed these admirably.

Stepping out!

"1-2-3 — KICK! GET THOSE LEGS UP! COME ON AND HAVE SOME FUN WITH IT!" These are only a few of the comments that might have been heard coming from an Orchesis rehearsal this year. Orchesis is the club for students who are interested in the art of dance. This year's members highlighted the annual French night with their complicated dancing in a French can-can. Not only did they have an interest in dance themselves, they also spread it to the rest of the school by holding dance workshops during lunch for any student who wanted to come.

True Talent

Under the guidance of Mr. James Gemmell, the Royal Marching Band had itself a very busy year. The Band toured all over the state marching in many parades. One of the most successful tours was down to Southern California where the Band performed at Knott's Berry Farm. The Band also played in the "battle of the bands" held in Dodger Stadium. Among the Band's other activities was the football halftime shows which turned many heads. Happy faces also watched as the Royals marched down State Street in the Christmas and Easter parades. March brought a fantastic musical concert by the Band. Still another year has passed and again the Royal Band has proved to be a talented group.

A Mark Of Excellence

The Royal Band and Marquettes have long been recognized as a team of outstanding entertainers among high schools in California. Their reputation also extends beyond the California borders. Headed by Mr. and Mrs. Gemmell, the Band and Marquettes took part in many football halftime shows, parades, and high school competitions. Over the years, this group of performers has successfully brought home to Santa Barbara countless numbers of awards and ribbons, proving that the long hard hours of practicing were well spent.

Performers To Remember

This year's Marquettes were more than active. Lead by captain Chris Young, the Marquettes performed many halftime shows, much to the delight of the football crowds. The themes for these shows ranged from the 1980 Olympics to Superman. At the Santa Barbara-San Marcos football game, the Marquettes, along with the band, paid special tribute to retiring coach Sut Puailoa. As the season for football ended, the Marquettes went on tour. They participated in the Christmas and Easter parades along with the Labor Day parade in the summer.

The glamorous reputation that the Marquettes hold can only be attributed to the long, hard hours spent by each and every member practicing and perfecting all the steps in the dance routines. As a result of all their hard work, the Marquettes have made a name for themselves at San Marcos.

The Leaders Of The Pack

The Royal Band and Marquettes would not be complete without the Majorette and the Banner Girls. These eleven people are very important to the band because they lead the way down the road. As a unit, the Band, Marquettes, Majorette, and the Banner Girls have made themselves award winners all over California. Majorette Heidi Kilminster herself has won many baton twirling awards. The Banner Girls are also very important, for without them, the band would not have the proper introduction to all the crowds that they perform for each year.

Spirit Fills Pep Band

The Pep Band kept school spirit strong all year by playing at football, volleyball, and basketball games. They also started our rallies off on a lively note by marching through the halls. Their intentions were not to play well but instead to have some fun. All seventeen members were extremely enthusiastic, and, to quote one member, "They all thought they were crazy." Some of them even dressed up as apes or other strange creatures. School spirit would not have been able to stay as high as it did without the Pep Band's help.

Jazz Band On The Road

The Jazz Band was very active this year. They opened their season with a December concert in the cafeteria. They also played in the Royal Blue Review. During the months of March and April, they participated in several festivals, then finished off the year with a concert in June. There was strong enthusiasm demonstrated by the members, and it paid off. Mr. Gemmell, the director of the band, stated that more ground was covered in a shorter time by this group than by any other he could remember.

Sing it!

Lifting their voices in glorious song to over forty audiences is not the easiest thing to do. This year it was made even harder by the fact that at times up to half of the Madrigals could not sing because of winter sickness. But even this problem did not hold the Madrigals from their superlative singing.

Entertainment highlights included French night, the Christmas concert, and the planning of a spring tour.

Easily one of the most spirited and talented groups on campus this year was the A Cappella. Whether it was performing a rock medley from "Godspell" in the Royal Blue Review, or singing a Latin Christmas carol in the Christmas concert, the choir enjoyed an unparalleled level of enthusiasm. One of the jobs that took the most group participation was the planning of the annual Noel in White, where the theme "'Twas the night before Christmas" reigned. To wind up the year the choir planned on taking a spring tour to San Francisco.

Nutrition Comes To SM

The Student Store, under the direction of Mr. Lodas, did very well this year. Each person on the staff was responsible and dealt with all customers skillfully — an improvement over other years. A gradual increase in nutritional snacks was well received, as were new San Marcos and Royal stickers, jerseys, and caps. The class ring sales were far above last year's totals due to better organization and more extensive advertising. The student body profited greatly from the club because all profits went into ASB funds.

Members Enthusiastic

MECHA, which stands for the Movement of the Chicano Students of Historic Atzlan, was formed for the benefit and mutual interests of the American Chicano students. The club, which proved to be popular this year, participated in various activities throughout the term. These activities included selling pastries during the Homecoming Carnival and participating in Ducky Don Week. In recent years, the club gave scholarships and hoped to continue doing so. MECHA, which had many enthusiastic members and was well supported by its advisor, Mr. Boorman, set as its goal the recruitment of more people for next year.

Aiming For The Future

"The Math Club tries to help its members with new mathematical ideas," commented advisor Mr. Godar. Unfortunately, from lack of time among its members, the club's activities were limited. They did, however, welcome a math speaker from UCSB who spoke about "Math In Your Future." Some members also participated in the rigorous National MAA math exam to further their studies.

"Diplomacy" A New Game

The Chess Club became more of a genuine "game" club this year. Members spent many lunch periods keeping busy with Chess, "Othello," "Dungeons and Dragons," and other games, but the one that really developed member interaction was the popular, strategic war game, "Diplomacy." Whether the members were Chess fans, game nuts, or serious war diplomats, fun could be found in the Chess Club.

Orators Hit Hard Times

Concentrating on speech techniques and improving speaking abilities were the main goals of this year's speech club. Unfortunately, with the loss of advisor Mrs. Tindell, and the departure of president Mimi Atkinson, the club hit hard times. Without an official team, the club was also unable to participate in many competitions. Cheryl Sanchez, however, took part in a county-wide contest where she won second place.

Anchors Away

"Anchors away" was this year's theme for the sailing club. After many weekends of learning the fundamentals of sailing, the club members were finally ready to go. In April the sails were hoisted and the Royal Barge was off on a three day voyage to Santa Cruz. According to club president, Sean Bercaw, "The trip was a royal success."

Bike Club Shifts Gears

The Bike Club had many long distance trips, several of them up San Marcos Pass to Solvang. Even though there were just a few participants, they had fun. This year the club drove to Nojoqui Falls and cycled 100 miles on a loop course called the "Century Trip." On all their trips they started early Saturday mornings, meeting at various places and putting in a hard day's ride. Much to the disappointment of President Jay Farbman, many of the people who signed up for the club did not participate in the rides. However, those who did showed enthusiasm, and they enjoyed themselves.

No Horsing Around

One of the more active organizations was the Equestrian Club. Led by advisor Hal Kilminster, the equestrians went to Santa Anita to learn about thoroughbred training and racing, went on an overnight to White Oaks, and worked with other riding clubs to put on horse shows. The club also sponsored the "Last Chance Dance," and to top it off, produced the famous fudge sundaes at the Homecoming Carnival.

S M Cadets Participate

Before football games it is traditional to salute the flag. This year the new San Marcos memorial offered ROTC a unique opportunity for flag raising detail before each home game. ROTC performed the saber guard for the Homecoming Ceremony, and they took part in the Labour Day and Memorial Day parades. The drill team competed with Santa Barbara, as did the football team in their yearly game. On Friday December 21, the annual review and inspection was held, and the whole student body was invited to attend. Somewhat similar to this was their field day which was held later in the year. They also sponsored a rifle team this year. The finale came when they went to training camp where they learned about such things as M-60 machine guns.

AFS = Visitors From Afar

This year AFS was very busy. They had three exchange students: Sylvie Szabo (France), Anja Lubenau (Germany), and Dulce Soares (Brazil). In addition, there were two private exchange students — Johnny Rijpens (Belgium), and Soile Ahava (Finland).

The club sponsored a dance with MECHA, one by themselves, and also a Christmas party. They met regularly every Wednesday and paid for smaller flags representing the countries of the exchange students. The new flags were hung in the library.

The highlight of the year was an inter-high school exchange. Students from San Luis Obispo came down and stayed with members of AFS. Among the events which took place that weekend were a potluck party, a square dance, and a talent show.

Surveys Prove Popular

This year, the King's Page continued the tradition of excellence in writing that had earned top awards in prior years. In addition to writing and editing the material for each issue, the 1979-80 staff put in hours at the printer's doing the actual composition, readying the material for the press.

Every two weeks, the staff, under the leadership of Doug Hayward, turned out a paper that gave San Marcos students coverage of on-campus events and issues, together with topics of local and national concern.

Among the more popular articles, were the ones that surveyed local pizza offerings and ice cream franchises.

Yearbook Encounters Usual Problems

Although yearbook began the year with sixteen enthusiastic members, this number soon diminished to six. These six people formed the nucleus of the staff, and they were the ones responsible for putting together this yearbook. Each of these people spent an average of 25 hours a week at school working on the book.

Most people have no conception of the amount of concentrated work and effort that is required to put out a yearbook. They don't realize that somethings must be done three or four times before they will work. That after someone writes something, three people check it, sometimes totally change it, only to find out that it won't fit in the layout anyway. Many people assume that there is an overabundance of pictures from which to choose, but this is far from the truth; actually, they scrounged for photos. After they found a picture which would work, it had to be identified. A feat which was sometimes impossible. These were just a few of the everyday problems.

However, the class was not all bad. There were, in fact, as many good aspects as bad. For instance, because they saw each other 25 hours a week, the people quickly came to know the true personalities of their fellow staff members. Each afternoon, as the campus grew quiet and the sun went down, so did any personality masks. During breaks they shared jokes, pretzels, and cokes. If the purpose of a club or organization is to draw people together and to encourage new friendships by working for a common goal, then yearbook succeeded.

Each fall the ritual begins anew. September means new courses, new faces, new concepts, and new challenges. This holds true for the students as well as the teachers. As the year begins, the majority of the students turn their attention toward mastering these concepts and conquering these challenges.

Granted, academics may not always be in the limelight, but they are the main purpose of schools. Any extra-curricular activity is just that — extra; the icing on the cake. So just as fall is the new beginning for each school year, so is school the beginning of our futures. It is where we start preparing for our careers, and where we start developing our interests.

Class Of '80 Tops Record

This year's Senior Class was well organized due to the leadership of class president Adrian Tartler. Senior class vice-president Linus Huffman, treasurer Robin Ziegler, and secretary Lucia Wallis also helped to make 1980 a memorable one for graduates. The officers' main responsibility was organizing fund raisers to pay for Senior Week activities. The most successful money raiser was the annual magazine sales drive. The seniors participated so enthusiastically that the Class of 1980 netted more money than any class in the school's history. The money collected went toward such activities as the annual "Grad Night" at Disneyland. The main goal set by the officers was to make Senior Week exciting for all graduates.

"My goal is to be rich and famous."

"My three years at SM have passed quickly, but I want to start on life."

"I really don't want to graduate this year."

"I have a feeling of leaving behind a part of life that can never be the same again."

"I just hope to live a long, happy life."

"I'm ready to give the big outside world a try."

"Life is such a big step from high school."

"Let's live it up!"

"It's time for a change to something more realistic."

"I'm sort of nervous . . ."

"Feels SO good!!"

"It's a challenge to go on."

REFLECTIONS

A mere statement of facts and future plans cannot possibly serve as a complete summary of the feelings of the graduating seniors. Personal comments and observations are needed to truly convey the reactions of the seniors to their years at San Marcos. How do they really feel about their experiences of the past three years in high school? Has the time passed quickly or has it dragged along slowly? What are their thoughts on graduation and the future? The best way to find out is to ask the seniors.

"I sure am glad I'm a senior. I love hassling sophomores."

"San Marcos will always be a good memory to look back upon."

"To wrap it all up in two words, I would describe SM as bizarre and cosmic."

"Sometimes I wish I could do it all over again."

"As a sophomore I was unsure of how to fit in and could hardly wait til I was out of high school. My junior year was much more comfortable. Now that my senior year has finally arrived, I'd like to spend another three years at San Marcos."

"I can't understand why I had butterflies by the thousands in my stomach before coming to San Marcos."

"I've always been told my senior year would be my best, and finally I believe it!"

"Thank you for introducing me to ceramics, psychology, and science. It's going to help."

"San Marcos has no spirit!"

"There are a few teachers I'll never forget."

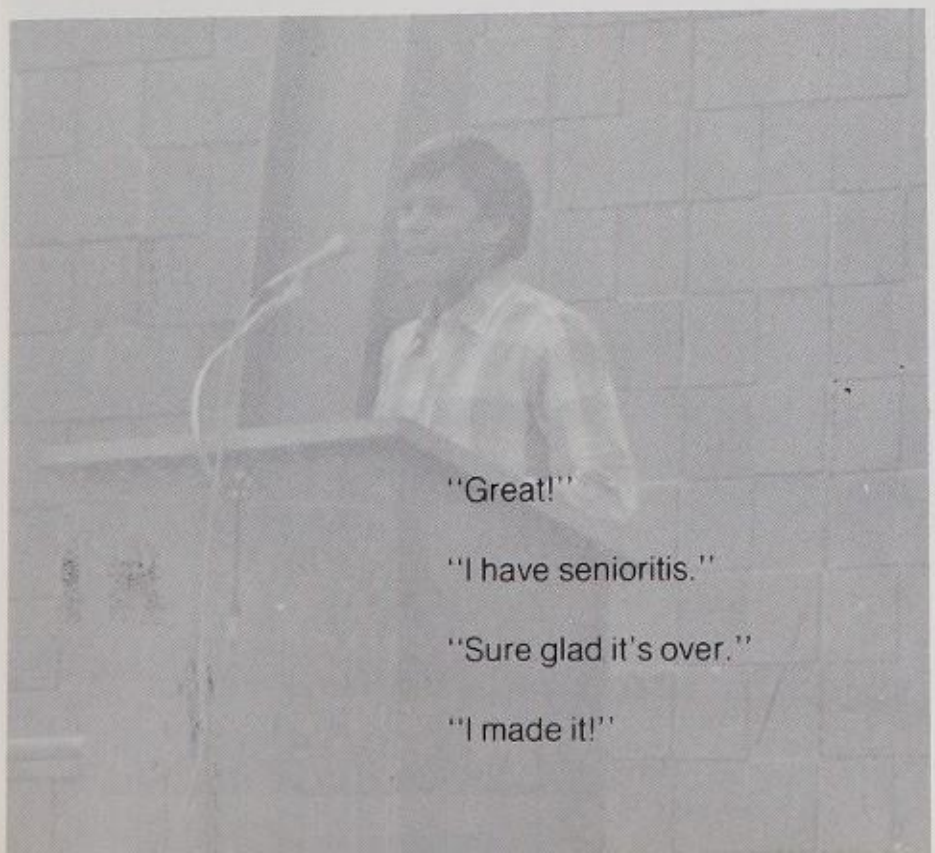
"I've really grown as a person and learned to accept more responsiblitily."

"I have achieved nothing at all."

"I'm proud to be associated with San Marcos."

"I found that I like math."

"It was a worthwhile growing-up experience."



"Great!"

"I have senioritis."

"Sure glad it's over."

"I made it!"

Counselors Alter Routine

Familiar faces in the Administrative and Guidance Offices greeted returning students in September, but the routine was greatly changed. Instead of pairs of counselors assigned to each grade, as in the past, each counselor was given an alphabetical block made up of students in all three grades.

Two new members appeared on the school board and three incumbent members were re-elected. Dr. David Thomas entered his second year as Superintendent of Schools.

The Junior class, led by the class officers, focussed their attentions on Homecoming this year. The main objective was to make money, and they did very well. The dance, which was a sell-out, was held in the student center, so their only cost was that for the band and for the decorations. This resulted in a large profit for the class.

Beginnings Come To Life

Although many people took on the attitude that the '80s could be a new beginning, most expected something to happen by itself. A few people, however, took action to initiate new experiences. Patti Hartl and Becky Connor, from Beaver Dam, Wisconsin and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania respectively, came to San Marcos to start the new decade with a rare experience.

Before they came to Santa Barbara, they imagined that it was one giant beach, sporting groups of hippies and weirdos with surfboards. After arriving, these stereotypes soon vanished. Although they did find the beach, sun, and very often clear blue skies, they also discovered that the people and community were very friendly. "People went out of their way to help us."

Home for both students had a much more conservative atmosphere. Here they were given more freedom, and attitudes at school seemed more mature and more at ease.

To get here thy applied through the AFS club at their home school. They wrote essays, went to interviews, and filled out "tons of forms." All though they each had preferences about where they would like to go, they were given no real choice. Both now agree that California was a terrific place to spend an exchange semester. They described their AFS experience as being a really good one, saying that it made them appreciate their old schools, friends, and families.

Yearbook — Round Two

After a difficult first semester, the yearbook staff went through an almost complete transformation. The work was the same as it had been during the first part of the year, but a new level of enthusiasm entered the room. The new staff worked vigorously despite the lack of experience, and the added impediments that the weather caused in the last few weeks before the final deadline. After the middle of March, the staff planned the distribution of the books, and then went on to start working on next year's book.

B the Old
Señior Barrios
(Barley Toast, Barrios)
It's been a cruel
& wicked year in the year of the Barrios.

I would like to extend a special thanks to all the people whose help and encouragement went into completing this book.

To Mr. Stanton, who is more responsible for pulling this book together than anyone else, and to his wife and son for their help and understanding.

To the yearbook staff, especially Terry Dahlstrom, Mike Hess, and Stewart Savage who did the majority of the work first semester, and to a terrific second semester staff.

To O'Connor Brothers Studio for their photographic assistance.

To Mr. Mace, Mr. Mangini, Mr. Mead, and Mr. Morez for helping us with the cover.

To Mr. Hall, our printer's representative.

To Susan Coleman for helping us in her spare time.

And finally, to Mom, Dad, and Tequila for not renting my room out.

John B,

Hey, I am glad that a friend of mine was in R.O.T.C. It makes me feel secure when I know that we have some real men safeguarding our shores. Good luck and keep up the good work in the military.

Remember the Alamo and the Maine!

Chemistry was not a whole lot of fun, but the labs were pretty good. I'm glad I had the chance to know you. Thanks for making chemistry bareable.
Good luck in the future.
